

the 1990s, the number of people in the world who are poor has increased.

There are two main reasons for this. First, the world population has increased by 1.5 billion people since 1980. Second, the number of people who are poor has increased in almost every country in the world. In the United States, the number of people who are poor has increased from 25 million in 1980 to 35 million in 1995.

There are many reasons why the number of people who are poor has increased. One reason is that the cost of living has increased. Another reason is that the number of people who are unemployed has increased. A third reason is that the number of people who are disabled has increased.

There are many things that we can do to help people who are poor. One thing we can do is to provide them with food and shelter. Another thing we can do is to provide them with education and training. A third thing we can do is to provide them with healthcare.

There are many organizations that are working to help people who are poor. One organization is the United Nations. Another organization is the World Bank. A third organization is the International Labour Organization.

There are many things that we can do to help people who are poor. We can provide them with food and shelter. We can provide them with education and training. We can provide them with healthcare. We can provide them with many other things that they need to live a better life.
